CONGRESSMAN BLACK.

WASHINGTON, May 14.-This morning I went out to see Mr. Black who still lies prostrate at his home on P street. With him was Dr. Busey, his faithful physician, one of the oldest and best in Washington. In the last three weeks Mr. Black has made wonderful improvement. His color is good and the cheerful expression of his face tells of renewed vitality. He showed us, with something like a look of pride, how he could lift his right arm, move his fingers and almost shift his position by using his lower limbs. "I feel as well as I ever did in my life," he said, and Dr. Bussey, whom I heard say his patient was a dying man, said, smilingly: "Oh, yes! He is getting well." This will, I am sure be cheering intelligence to the many friends of Colonel Black in Georgia. His purpose is to remain in Washington until the first of July, and then to come to Atlanta. He owns a cottage on Peachtree street, opposite the home of his father-in-law, Mr. Richard Peters, and there he will spend the hot months. In the fall, he will return to his home in Sylvania. His brain has never been affected, and in the days of his greatest suffering he followed the course of events in the arena from which he was so suddenly stricken. This morning he said he thought congress had done two big things at the present session. One was the passage of the tariff commission bill, and the other the creation of a department of agriculture. Mr. Black's first and only speech in congress was in support of the agricultural deficiency bill and was a good one.

his partners in that political machine, it will be against the protest not only of the Georgia delegation, the Atlanta bar and influential citizens of Georgia, but contrary to the wishes of leading republicans in Washington close to the administration. I am sure Mr. Atkins could not be confirmed if his name were sent to the senate. It may be a mistaken kindness for his friends to press his claims further. Don Cameron is the most thorough representative of Arthur in the senate. If Arthur declines to take his advice and persists in amounting Atkins. Cameron will oppose Arthur dechnes to take his actice and persists in appointing Atkins, Cameron will oppose his confirmation. Old man Simon has strongly advised the president not to hamper himself in this way. Hoar and Dawes are making a desperate fight to defeat a nomination which they say is distateful to their constituents. How could they vote for a nomination of that kind in another state? I know there need for Paparaton in New York and nation of that kind in another state? I know they voted for Robertson in New York, and my opinion that they would oppose Mr. Atkins is based not on a hope that would be consistent, but on a belief that they would do anything to strengthen their present antagonism to Worthington.

The democrats would solidly oppose Atkins's confirmation. With three or four republicans certain to vote against him why would he enter a contest that can have no issue but defeat?

It does not apply, for the judge is remarkably vigorous and well preserved. POINTS.

Congress will have a regular night session hereafter. Two big beer gardens open to-night for the season.

Bob Ingersoll "preaches" the doctrine of gentleness and peace, and if there ever was loud-mouthed blackguard it is Robert. Senator Pugh warmly advocates the bill for the establishment of a court of appeals, while Senator Morgan as warmly opposes it. The Alabama senators don't seem to like to be to-

Congressman Turner has returned after a brief visit home. I have seldom heard of a new member making so much character in the house by one speech as did Mr. Turner by his argument against the tariff commission bill. He is already recognized as a very strong man.

Collector Johnson-The New Judge-Griffin's Ma Sensiter Brown. Special Dispatch to The Constitution.

Washington, May 16.—The bond of Walter Johnson was received to-day at the treasury department, where it has been approved and accepted by Secretary Folger. Mr. M. L. Patterson, of Alabama, is the principal bondsman.

Mr. Patterson is said to be a very wealthy man, and it is given out as a fact that he is to be the new collector's chief deputy.

The contestants for the new district judge-ship are still fighting away. Judge Cunning-ham, of Atlanta, is still here, and is working ham, or Atlanta, is still here, and is working very hard. His friends are hopeful of his ul-timate and speedy success. There is little doubt that Charles R. Johnson, of Griffin, will be nominated as district attorney.

SENATOR BROWN. Senator Brown was in his seat to-day, and was warmly congratulated by many senators on his return. He seems hearty, and is ready for a continuance of his good work in WASHINGTON, D. C., May 16 .- In the Senate to-day petitions were presented by Mr. Me Pherson, from the board of aldermen of Jer sey city, solemnly protesting against what they call the base surrender by James G. Blaine and James Russell Lowell of the rights of American citizens abroad, calling on the president to vindicate these rights, and demanding the recall of Minister Lowell. The petition was referred to the committee on reign relations.

Mr. Bayard reported favorably from the finance committee, with amendments in na-ture of a substitute, the bonded spirits bill, He said the committee had taken speedy action on the question because of its importance to the public revenue and the extensive ance to the public revenue and the extensive business connected with it, and that an amendment would probably be offered in the senate, allowing the bonds to be given annually, so as to prevent the hardship, under the present arrangements, of giving bonds monthly. The bill was put on the calendar.

Mr. Brumm, of Pennsylvania, opposed the bill. He advocated the principle that the issuing function should be in the control of the government; and, in reply to a question as to how the amount of currency should be regulated, he said that he would give the treasury unlimited power to issue flat money, so long as money brought more than three per cent interest. The subject then went over. On motion of Mr. David, of North Carolina, the senate's joint resolution was passed authorizing the secretary of war to loan one hundred flags to the citizens' committee of Charlotte, North Carolina, to be used in the celebration of the 107th anniversary of Mecklenbergh declaration of independence. Two New York Men Get a Decree in the District Court Against the State of South Carolina.

Charleston, S. C., May 16.—A decree has been filed in the United States circuit court affirming the validity of the Blue Ridge scrip issued by the state of South Carolina under an act of March 2d, 1873, in exchange for certain bonds of the Blue Ridge railway, indorsed by the state. In 1873 the scrip act was declared unconstitutional and void by the state supreme court, and it was subsequently repealed by the legislature. The present decree orders an account to be taken of all scrip in the hands of bona fide holders, and proper process is then to issue to compel the receipt of said scrip for state tax, and to compel the levying of an annual tax for its redemption, and also to restrain county treasurers from the collection of taxes in cases where the said scrip has been tendered and refused. The plaintiffs are Amos D. Williams and E. B. Wesley, of New York, whose claims amount to about half a million dollars advanced to the state upon the security of the Blue Ridge railway bonds, which were subsequently surrendered by them in exchange for scrip.

NASHVILLE, May 16 .- At a meeting of the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church south to-day, the committee on the revisal submitted a report recommending that a chapter be inserted in the discipline to prohibit engaging in promiscuous dancing, either in private or at publiexhibitions, or visiting theatres, opera or circus. Election of five additional bishops was taken up, and Alpheus W. Wilson, of the Baltimore conference, for the past few years missionary secretary of the church with head. quarters at Nashville, was elected on the first ballot. Dr. C. THE APRICAN METHODISTS.

Bishop McTyeire said he had a fraternal communication from the African Episcopal Zion church, that he thought proper should be read. The bishop said those who were present at the Ecumenical council would remember the writer of the paper as a man who had taken much interest in the Southern Methodist church. The paper was read and Methodist church. The paper was read and referred to the committee on fraternal cor-

in recognizing our needs, yet has found it necessary to give her colored ministers conferences to themselves. Thus in one way or another all have recognized the necessity of the African church. The time may come when one general conference may legislate for the entire Methodist Episcopal family; when one book of discipline may govern the whole, and when one hymn book may afford hymns for us all, but so far as I can see we shall, for a long time, need the separate organization. At the same time, our holy religion prompts us to labor for the promotion of fraternity. As I have before remarked the relations existing between you, church and ours are such as to conduce to that end. We have also noticed that our sentiments respecting the necessity and work of the duce to that end. We have also noticed that our sentiments respecting the necessity and work of the African church, are of accord. The people to whom you minister and those to whom we are offering the bread and water of life, though socially separate, yet all business relations are most closely connected. As you are two hundred and fifty years in advance of us. in the enjoyment of the blessings of civil and reliaious liberty, it is not humiliating on our part to acknowledge that you have advantages that we do not enjoy, and that you have in a position where you can be of more use to us than we can to you. use to us than we can to you. Experience has taught me that our success here largely depends upon the excouragement we received from the white people. A good word don't cost much, but often does a vast deal of good. Except upon one point, which I need not to mention, the colored people look up to the white people for advice, and by the advice and instructions received therefrom their opinions are shaped to a very large degree. This is especially the case, as touching the character of the colored minister sent among them. If the white people testify to his intelligence and moral rectitude, his way is easys But if some white man says "That nigger won't do," he will have hard work to convince the colored people that he will do. The man thus branded has but two courses left him. One is to quietly work his way for mont has at a disadvantage; the other is to get upon the stump in time of excitement and appeal to their passions. I am happy to say that in our work, here, we have generally received en couragement from the minister's you represent. In some cases it has been overflowing. In this connection I wish to express our graitude and thanks to Bishop McTyeire and others who so kindly indorsed our appeal to the British people for aid in our effort to erect an institution for the education of our people.

In conclusion, let me assure you that the church I represent will be ever ready to perform its part in promotity the happiness of the eater Methodist

May the Great Bishop and Shepherd of souls preside over your deliberations and bless your labors. I am, with great veneration, yours in the Gospel J. W. Hoop. The bishop also presented a paper from the general conference on the Colored Methodist Episcopal church of America, asking for educational and mission help. It was referred to appropriate committees.

Dr. Evans then spoke in advocacy of four bishops. At the conclusion of his speech, Judge Foot moved that the vote be put, which was done after considerable debate, resulting in the standing vote of ayes 90; noes 134.

Dr. Bennett, chairman of the committee on Episcopacy obtained the floor wrid analysis.

Dr. Bennett, chairman of the committee on Episcopacy, obtained the floor amid applause. The doctor said he had no desire to speak on the subject, but his committee insisted upon his doing so. He would present the grounds of the committee on which they came to their conclusion. They had not done so under the influence of art or humor. Nothing had been said about bishop's dinners and eating turkeys, except, perhaps, one man, who had perhaps had more experience in that work than any one else. Nor had they considered whether it was necessary for the faith of any one that they have a bishop's visit or for the triumphant dying of the sisters of the church that they should have looked upon the face of a bishop But they have taken into consideration the present condition of the superintendency of the church, and had reached the conviction that it needed strengthening to a very considerable extent. He was surprised at the unanimity with which the committee had reached its conclusions. He had feared a division, but representing every section of the church, the committee had been almost unenimous in making the report. The committee had felt that the conference could select men capable in every way of carrying on the work of keeping the church abreast with the leading movements of other churches.

When the court opened the deputy warshel made his roturn on the war. pired to-day. When the court opened the deputy marshal made his return on the warrants that he had been unable to find Dorsey, Mr. Merrick, of counsel for the government, said that the warrants for Dorsey had been sent to New York, Vermont and Texas with-out effect. Judge Wylie directed the crier to call Dorsey's name. When this was done one of his counsel arose and said Dorsey was in court, and had been in the city ten days.

He added that it had been Dorsey's intention from the first to attend when want ed. After the filing of motions in his case similar to those filed in the others, Dorsey was arraigned. Waiving the reading of the indictment he pleaded not guilty. Merrick said the government was ready to proceed, but stated to the court that the grand jury was now considering Reidell's case. He said that if Reidell was not tried with the other defendants it would necessitate another trial in his case. This was to be avoided, he thought, and he submitted the matter to the judgment of the court, adding that ten days would or the court, adding that ten days would probably give time for the grand jury to indict Reidell. Judge Wylie thought the position taken by the government was a proper one; and he would therefore additions the hearing and the second tendence of the sec journ the hearing until Thursday next, May 26th. As counsel were about leaving the court room Judge Wylie reminded the marshal that he was responsible for the person of John W. in his case had been fixed at $10,000, which was given later in the afternoon.

Hevenel testified that he negotiated for the purchase of the Cochet claim, the estimated value being $1,200,000,000. In 1879, he found one of the heirs in Lima. named Galacias Cochet, aged heirs in Lima, named Galacias Cochet, aged about 34 years. He obtained from a Mr. Landreau information that Galacias had a right to the claim as heir of his tather, who discovered the guano. He made a contract with Galacias Cochet and then hunted up the record of his baptism. The registry set out that the son of Alexander Cochet and his wife, Comanche, was baptised at one year of age by the name of Galacias, and the witness had him identified. Dr. Franklin Stewart testified that he purchased a share of the Cochet claim from He-vener and sold a share and a half of the claim to Shipherd.

New Haven, May 16.—Mr. Jones this morning resumed the cross-examination of wisness Sanford, who yesterday testified that he was positive it was the evening of Friday, Argust 5, when he saw James Malley standing by a horse and buggy near Redcliffe's restaurant. Mr. Jones asked if James Malley bad not asked the witness if he (the witness) passed down Chapel street (where Sanford was when he saw James) Thursday evening and he was sure he did not so testify at West Haven. Henry C. Allen, a printer, testified that last August he knew Jennie Cramer by sight, but was not personally acquainted with her. He had seen her in Northford, where he formerly resided. He last saw her the night before the body was found. She was riding in a buggy, with red running gear and a top which was let down. The buggy was opposite the Redcliffe building, on the corner of Chapel street and Temple. Alles was on a horse-car platform and the car passed down Chapel street. A gentleman was with Jennie Cramer whom the witness had seen on the streets and in Edward Malley's store several times.

MONTEZUMA, May 15.—The reaper of the harvest is not always he who sows the seed. Genius brings to man's aid many wonderful inventions, and too often some thrifty person utilizes the inventor's fortune—the coffers of the former filled with ducats; the latter, the inventor, with poverty struggles and dies un A true illustration of this is presented in Dow Law, the inventor of the justly celebrated cotton planter that bears his name. In the year 1856, Mr. Dow Law was a resident of the county of Houston, and superintending the planting interests of Mr. Sam Felder, a large and prosperous planter. He was a quiet, iming and energetic gentleman, and a most thorough overseer in all his farm work. company one day in the writing of this year (1800), with Mr. W. T. Westbrook, a neighbor, the plantation of a Mr. Martin Kendrick was visited for the purpose of a personal examination of a new cotton planter that Mr. Kendrick was trying to operate, the most conspicuous feature of which was the ponderous and immense wheel that deposited the seed in hills imperfectly. Dow Law after scrutinizing for some time the working of the machine, exclaimed to Mr. Westbrook that he had caught the "idea," and would go home and perfect it by making a superior machine to the one heretofore in operation. Not long after this the planters of the neighborhood were called on to see operated the new Dow Law cotton planter, which foday stands superior and without a successful competitor, "exposition certificates" to the contrary notwithstanding.

His first machine was made entirely of wood, and consisted of three rollers, two arms or cranks, a seed box, in the bottom of which was an opening through which the seed were dragged by the revolving teeth in centre of box. He found that the rotary motion was not the theory, and changed it to oscillatory by taking off one arm or crank, which then made only half a revolution, the teeth swinging back and forth like a pendulum caused the seed to fall regularly and not clog up to one side as it did in a full revolution, which banked the seed to the front. The planter was now complete, and letters patent were obtained. They were supplied to many of the planters in Houston and adjoining counties at a nominal price. Dow Law's planting engagements prevented him from pushing this invention, and after his friends and neighbors were supplied he thought the end was reached, and little dreamed what would be the future of his invention. The war came on in a few years and into it went the inventor. In 1864, broken down in what would be the future of his invention. The war came on in a few years and into it went the inventor. In 1864, broken down in health and longing to go home to his family that he might die among them, he was honorably discharged at Lovejoy's station, on M. & W. railroad by an army board of physicians. A few months after the reunjon at his home he died. At the administrator's sale the auctioneer cried to the crowd the "patent right" of the Dow Law cotton planter. It was knocked down at $10. knocked down at $10

The "letters patent" changed into the hands Messrs. Brown & Miller, of Fort Valley, then into Mr. Henry Harris's possession, of the same place. Mr. Harris, after realizing a fortune of $75,000 or more out of it, has very recently sold out to B. F. Avery & Co. came about in this way: Mr. H. had contracted for several thousand of the "Dow Laws" with Messrs. Avery & Co., to be dedelivered in installment, the first installment about 1st December, 1881, and monthly to March about 1st December, 1881, and monthly to March 1st, 1882. Not a single installment had been delivered in February, and Mr. H. went to Louisville to claim damages. Upon his arrival the Messrs. A. & Co. explained that it was impossible for them to carry out the contract, owing to heavier contracts and orders, and asked Mr. H. to assess his damages. Twenty thousand dollars in round numbers was fixed as the sum of damages, and the firm paid it, whereupon the sale was made of the notent.

The negro mentioned in the same letter was not supposed by any citizen to have the small-pox. His mother was a resident of Montezuma and he was on a visit to her having been away since January in Atlanta. The day he landed home our worthy mayor. Hon. A. J. Hamilton, knowing he had just got in from Atlanta, met him and questioned him closely about his exposure to the disease in Atlanta. The mayor gave the young man choice to be quarantined in the outskirts of town, with a guard until the period of danger was passed, or return to Macon or some point away from town. He desired to go to Macon and a ticket was procured for him, but when the up train ran in, the "suspect" did not appear and has not been seen since. A LANDLORD'S LAMENT.

Montezuma, May 15.—Editors Constitution:
In your Sunday's issue a Montezuma correspondent would make your many readers believe that the good people of Montezuma did take steps to send the straggling negro, who made his appearance in our midst from Atlants with a supposed case of small-pox, back on next train on some other community. Such is not the case, nor was the intention of our authorities. The negro being informed that the marshal was looking for him foquarantine him, became very suddenly non est. Allow me to say our people are not so inhuman or brutish, and would spurn an act of this sort. But the most humiliating and sad part of his article is, he would make my customers, friends and kindred, together with your thousands of readers, believe that I, the live, wide awake landlord of the Minor House had handed in his checks, departed this life, and gone where the woodbine twineth. As I am the Mr. Hyatt referred to, please do me the justice to insert the above. MONTEZUMA, May 15 .- Editors Constitution the justice to insert the above.

ALBANY AFFAIRS.

Special Correspondence of The Constitution.

ALBANY, May 15.—The thermometer yesterday afternoon registered 61 degrees above zero, and is probably below that point this morning. The effects of the present cold snap on the young cotton plant is feared by many, but the wind that has prevailed may ward off anything like disaster.

The alarm of fire was sounded at 2 o'clock this morning, and three small wooden shanties on Broad street (the one a butcher shop, the other two a huckster stand and a notion store), were found to be enveloped in flames and were completely destroyed. Most of the contents were saved, and the loss was inconsiderable. These were the only remaining wooden structures on the business portion of the street. Fortunately the wind had laid and the fire was easily controlled.

May 13.—The colored fair, which has been in progress for the past two days at the fair grounds, closed yesterday afternoon. Like its immediate predecessor, the white folks' fair, it was a gratifying success. The attendance of course was large, and if there were any disappointed ones among the dusky crowds gathered together on the ground, it was not possible for a looker on to detect it. In point of thorough enjoyment and appreciation among participants and spectators it doubtless surpassed the white fair. The exhibits, too, were by no means unworthy of attention, and in some particulars compared more than favorably with those of the atter. The paucity of farm and garden exhibits was noticeable at both, but the few specimens shown were invariably good ones—far better than the ordinary run. Neither fair, however, in this respect, showed to much advantage what nature and favorable seasons have this year done for this section. They had their art gallery too, and many choice specimens of needlework, embroidery, drawings and sketches were exhibited, and showed a high degree of taste and culture. In short, for a first attempt, the colored fair was an undoubted success, and it is hoped will prove the avant courier of many others to follow. It will undoubtedly teach our colored friends undoubted success, and it is noped will prove the avant courier of many others to follow. It will undoubtedly teach our colored friends how much more profitable and rational it is to expend a little money in this direction here at home, than a great deal otherwise on their innumerable and unprofitab church gatherings and excursions. It is needless to add, that the colored people in this enterprise had the best wishes and co-op-eration of all the whites, who did their utmost

The Rev. Mr. Harrison, colored, of Hancock, of the A. M. Albany has not yet quarantined against Atlan'a, nor have any measures for compulsory vaccination been taken. In fact. Albany is just now less alarmed about the small-pox, and, we may add less likely to be small-pox, and, we may add, less likely to be afflicted with that or any other scourge than any city or hamlet in the state, and it is amusing to note an item in a late copy of the "Blakely News" to the effect that "the union

GEIFFIN, May 12 .- "That's a swedge." "A what?" "A swedge."

"Well, what in the world is a swedge?" The speaker was Mr. C. H. Osborne, an honored citizen of this place, whom I saw this morning at his factory on Hill street. Next October will be thirty-nine years since he came to Griffin from one of the New England states. Since then he has lived here, grown up with the town, and by those honest rules to govern a life of virtue and manliness, Dame Fortune has smiled upon him until now peace and plenty abound in his household. Continuing his answer to my inquiry about the small piece of steel which he had called a "swedge," Mr. Osborne said: "It is used as an anvil by blacksmiths for the purpose of rounding the ends of iron or of grooving it." The piece of steel was about four inches long by two and a half wide, and about half an inch thick. "That was the first thing I ever bought in Georgia, and for it raid out the learning in t

"TWO BOLLARS AND A HALFI HAD to memore draw of my history since then." Mr. Cosborne is one of the most modest men I ever saw. Never since his advent here has he been known to speak of himself or his work a single time. He goes right along, always minding his own affairs and paying strict attention to the details of his business. He was quite a young man when he started out as a blacksmith here nearly forty years ago, not twenty years of age, and it is a source of much pleasure to his friends to know that from hard ticks at the anvil he has now risen until he owns one of the most successful facuntil he owns one of the most successful facories in Georgia, employing fifty hands and covering about an acre and a half space.

What Work Will Do.

I suppose it is safe to say that the Osborne factory supplies nearly two hundred people with daily bread. Building carriages and buggles is the principal work done, though he makes nearly everything else that can be made of wood. This morning I was carried through the entire establishment, where I he haves hearly everything case that can be made of wood. This morning I was carried through the entire establishment, where I found everything in a flurry of work and rush. The building is a very substantial frame structure, about 100 feet long by 60 wide, two stories high, and filled with all the atest and most improved machinery.
"How many machines do you use here?"

"About twenty-five different kinds in all. There is nothing that is needed that I do not have placed here at once. I have now as a set of machinery as can be found "How many buggies and carriages do you

One of the secrets of my success is that my work is reliable, and it is made so because I super-intend it all myself—every piece of it. I trust no one to do my superintending. I have sent out some of the finest carriages ever made in this state and those who carriages this state and those who once own them seldom fail to buy of me again."
"How does your factory compare with others in Georgia?"

others in Georgia?"
"Well, that I cannot say, though, I suppose if you leave out Collins, of Macon, there are no others any larger. On this point, however, I am not careful, for I pay strict attention to my own business, and do not bother with that of others.

A GOOD MOTTO.

My rule has always been that what I cannot pay for, I let alone. 'A small boat must keep near the shore,' was one of my first motter, and to which I have strictly adhered. As a consequence I have never failed to pay one hundred cents on the dollar with in-

Besides the carriage business, Mr. Osborne also manufactures cottage chairs. Mr. Walcott is associated with him in this branch of the trade, and the chair is known as the Wal-cott chair. They have an immense trade, was as from 15,000 to 20,000 and sell every and self from 15,000 to 20,000 every year, with the business constantly increasing. In the chair factory, as in the carriage factory, all the latest improved machinery is used. It is one of the best chairs known to dealers, and the strongest proof of its merit is from the fact that it l. terally sells itself. It has gradually found sale in the south on its own worth and found sale in the south on its own worth, and instead of keeping a drummer on the road, orders come thick and fast without that extra expense.

FORTY THOUSAND FRUIT CRATES. "The fruit business promises to be the largestfor several years, this summer, probably the largest ever known in Georgia," said Mr. Osborne, "and I am overrun with orders for crates. Here is a machine which has before it a task of making 40,000 crates, within the

"Who are they for?" I asked. "Ten thousand of them are for Mr. John D. Cunningham, the rest belonging to different fruit growers around Griffin."

I did not ask Mr Osborne how much his trade amounted to every year, but it certainly cannot fall a dollar short of $75.000, and may be more than that. All this immense trade was built up from a commencement at the anvil. It shows what a bright reward there is in honest labor.

Mr. Osborne is one of the most enterprising men in middle Georgia, and is ever willing to show his public spiritedness by taking stock in anything that will benefit Griffin. He is satisfied that the city is on a good solid basis and is growing in a manner commensurate with the times. C. T. L.

THE ROUNTREE MURDER. Opening Scenes of the Trial of Johnson and Echols at Athens. From the Athens. Ga., Banner-Watchman May 16. Yesterday morning was set aside for the trial of Frank Johnson and Enos Echols, for the murder of Walter Rountree.

At an early hour in the morning the court room was filled to overflowing with negroes, both men and women, while the attendance of whites was rather small. When the prisoners were brought into court by their guard there was a rush to get a look at the men, and a crowd of blacks even followed them into the bar, but were soon made to leave. The prisoners were neatly dressed in black, and appeared entirely unconcerned and indifferent. Frank Johnson several times smiled upon his friends, and seemed to have neither remorse at his crime nor fear of consequences. He sat at the rear of his coun-sel, Messrs. Echols, Wright and Thomas, while Miles Johnson, step-father to Frank, assisted his lawyers to select the jury. Bartow Roun-tree had a seat immediately in rear of the prisoners, beside his brother and Solicitor-General Mitchell. Southern Sanitarium, ind its present location, 178 W. Peters street, to that of 135 McDonough street, where, with increased medical facilities and new scientifically constructed apparatuses, we will be better than ever prepared to illustrate as how, by proper aid, the operations of the VIS-MEDICATRIC NATURAE are slways right and beneficial, as well as also, how irrational and absurd it is to poison a person because he is sick.

OVER TWO THOUSAND PERSONS have by our methods of treatment under our personal guidance been entirely restored to health without administering a single dose of either Mineral. The contemplated course of the Chattanooga, Columbus and Florida railroad, after reaching Columbus, would be a little easterly of a parallel line with the Chattahoochee river, until it reached its objective southern terminus at Bainbridge, on Flint river, in Decatur county, Georgia, co-terminus with northwest Florida. A Never-Failing Cure for Burns, Scalds, Bruises, Cuts, Sores, e After forty years of trial, PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER stands unrivaled. It is safe! It acts immediately! It never fails!

Editor of the St. John (N. B.) News, says:

In flesh wounds, aches, pains, sores, etc.,
It is the most effectual remedy we know of.
No family should be without a bottle of it for a single hour.

From the Cincinnati Dispatch:
We have seen its magic effects, and know
It to be a good article.

From I. S. Potter, U. S. Consul at Crefeld,
Rhenish Prussia:
After long years of use, I am satisfied it is positively effectant as a healing remedy for wounds, bruises, and sprains.

PEREY DAYIS PAIN EBLER IS not a new untried remedy. For forty years it has been in W. W. Lum, Nicholville, N. Y., says: I use your Pan Killer frequently. It relieves pain and soreness, and heals wounds like magic.

PERRY DAVIS "PAIN KILLER IS not a new untried remedy. For forty years it has been in constant use; and those who have used it the langest are its best friends.

Its success is entirely because of its merit. Every family should have a bottle ready for use. Much pain and heavy doctors bills may often be saved by prompt application of the Pain Killer. Unlike most medicines, it is perfectly safe even in the hands of a child. Try it once theroughly, and it will prove its value. Your druggist has it as 25.c., 50c., and 31.00 per bottle.

THE DECKTOWN LINES.

From the Change Josepher.

The progress on the Western North Carolina railroad is beginning to yield its fruits in the development of that section. An editorial in a recent issue of the New York capitalists have acquired possession of the valuable copper mining interests at Hiawassa, near Ducktown, Cherokee county. The property embraces about 3,000 acres. There is a local railroad and about 120 nouses for operatives and smelting works on the land. The ores found on this property are said to be of a very superior quality and have been worked in past years with profit in the old way, and the product hauled forty miles over the mountains to Cleveland, Tenn., and the junction of the Rome and Dalton, and East Tennessee and Virginia railroads. The present managers will erect modern machinery and go extensively into mining with regular system.

It is understood that they have, in conjunction with foreign capitalists, arranged with the Richmond and Danville terminal company for the immediate completion of the Ducktown branch of the Western road. The contract with the state gives them until 1885 to complete the work, but the capitalists interested in these mines are anxious for a speedier completion to enable them to expedite the operations which they have in contemplation. They further agree to co-operate with the Rome and Dalton, and East Tennestend with the Rome and Dalton, and East Tennestend of the Rome With an inexhaustable supply fancy Cobweb and Esthetic Furniture, with a complete stock Wardrobes Book Cases, Hat Racks, Desks, Library Tables, Extension and Marble Tables, Sideboards, Raw Silk, Silk Plush, Leather and Carpet, Folding and Plain Lounges, together with one hundred very handsome tension of the road from Ducktown to Cleveland, Tenn., which would make connection with the Rome and Dalton, and East Tennessee and Virginia railroads, and make the Ducktown branch a part of the great through line north and south.

This is the beginning of the development of the vast resources, mineral and other kinds that abound in that section, and which by the completion of the Western road and its branches will be brought into the market and be made available. There is a bright future dawning for Western North Carolina. This is the handsomest display of fine Furniture ever made in Atlanta, and I propose, in the future I have done in the past to offer my customers nothing but dist class, stylish furniture, and at price at cannot be duplicated by any dealer. GEORGIANS will be glad to learn that Cor gressman Black, who was so wholly given up for dead at one time, is now likely to recover entirely. The congressman is one of our best ers, and has been missed in house

A FINE state of siffairs is that in Mismeapolis. where it appears students and professors amuse themselves shooting at each other. What sert of discipline can obtain in an institution where both professors and student carry revolvers and use them?

That is an interesting story, and one has ing a striking lesson, that is told by our Montezuma correspondent about the vicissitude of a patent. It has a pathetic, and almost tragic, side, showing how easily romance attaches itself to the most prosaic of subjects

As THE words of a possible democratic candidate for the nomination of president in 1884 Mr. W. S. Hewitt's speech on the na- make such a showing as will chal- pound; for his hammer, 21/2 cents per pound; tional bank system, deserves attention. He takes a very conservative view of affairs and all criticism. We cannot close without bearspeaks with the caution of a careful and practiced business man. The enthusiastic praise which he gives the present system is, there fore, all the more noticeable. The changes proposed by the gentleman from New York mack of the New York financier, and are, as a rule, sound and practical suggestions.

JOHN W. DORSEY is, it appears, more ready go on with his trial than the government. is not very creditable to the government officials that they should have scoured the country from Vermont to Texas and reported that they could not find their man when he arose under their noses in court, and said and showed that he had been in Washington all the time. Neither do the continual delays which are asked for on one pretext and an other by the government counsel go far to reassure the country that the officials are anxious to proceed in the star route cases.

AT last the chief work of the Nashville con ference is done. Five bishops have been elected. Of these Georgians are chiefly in terested in Dr. Attiens G. Haygood. It is an henor to the state as well as to Dr. Haygood that he was chosen. He will fill the office with ability and grace. Emory college per haps will suffer some deprivation of the services of the most constant worker which it has had as president. It is curious to note, by the way, how fond the Methodist's are of choosing college professors as bishops. Here at this conference two are selected while in the past, both north and south, they have ever been prominent among holders of the Eniscopal seats.

So FAR as at present appears, the work of the Presbyterian assembly, which meets here to-morrow, is of a miscellaneous character. and in good part consists of unfinished business n. Among the most im- bill determination of the use of the revised version of the Scriptures, delegating member to the Northern Presbyterian church, and the publication business; which last seems to be a thorny task to deal with in every church which undertakes to be a publisher. With these topics before them, the assembly will have quite enough to do-not to mention the other work before it-and it is to be hoped that an agreeable and profitable season of work will be the result.

Among the many annoyances of the timid purchaser of patented goods, has been the feared the bold notice to "beware of infriggements," and "purchaser of other than the original and genuine will be prosecuted," which generally accompany such goods. Moreover, many persons have found, to their cost, that they have been forced to pay extra for the use of articles purchased in good faith and innocence at a fixed price. This is a manifest injustice and it has generally seemed to be a strained construction of the "caveat emptor" idea. The bill which has passed the house providing that "no action for damages for an infringement of patents, shall be sustained for the use of any patented article or device, when it shall appear on trial that the defendant purchased such article for valuable consideration in the open market," is a measure which will at once commend itself to the public as emi nently just and satisfactory. And it is a measure far more adapted to public interes than the greater part of patent legislation is apt to be. Of course its effect will be that the tee of an article will have his remedy at the hands of the man who makes the inment and not the man who uses at in-

THE LIBRARY ELECTION. closed amid the greatest excitement ever known in that institution, but with perfect

It is but just to say that the ticket known as the "new ticket" entered the field against great odds, and in fighting the old board and the old board influence assaulted an element that has never been defeated by outside attack in the history of the library. They made gallant fight and did better; all things conred, than any ticket ever before run nst an administration that lento succeed itself. We with a thorough understanding of the ion that the young gentlemen who contheir names to be used on the new the gentlemen who organized that ticket, and the gentlemen who organized that ticket and stood behind it, such as Messrs. Julius Brown, Donald Bain, John H. Harle, bonds expended by the government

John Flynn and others, did more for the library in that short contest of a few days ern states of $275,362,260, against $94,814,379 han all the board put together have been able expended in the southern states, and a grand o do in the past five or six years. They brought into the library on the citement over a 800 as new members, dding nearly 100 per cent to the membership and putting it squarely beyond 1,300. For this result the candidates themselves and their backers deserve the ratitude and thanks of the library, and that of the city at large.

A pleasant feature of the election was the bringing into membership of the employes in large shops, factories, stores and schools bout the city. In many cases, as in Moore's usiness college, Haiman's plow factory and Regenstein & Kutz's store, the proprietors gave to all of the students and employes a six months paid membership in the library. This will bring within its educative enlightening influence hundreds of young people and grown people who would never otherwise have known that the library existed, except from hearsay; that many of them will derive great benefit from it cannot be doubted, and that scores of them will be retained as permanent members by paying their own dues is assured. After the election on yesterday they were shown through the various library rooms and were delighted with what they saw. Many of them took out books, and all of them announced the lists were arranged and their rights ministration, thanks to the bright and spirited opposition and the reviving interest in the library received therefrom, start the new year in 100 per cent better trim than any administration that has preceded them. From this fact as well as from the handsome vote by which they were sustained they may understand that they have have grave responsibilthey must at the end of the year lenge universal admiration and silence ing testimony to the compliment paid President Smith and his colleagues, by the large vote by which they were re-elected. They had to face the sharpest opposition that was for his door, 2½ cents per ever made, backed by old veterans who had pound; on his wife's sad-iron, 1½ cents been trained from the old board standpoint and bore the scars of many a hard fought contest in the library. That they were so triumphantly elected over all this is a tribute, the value of which no man in the city will care to under-estimate. That they will manage the library with signal ability and fill their various offices with credit to themselves goes without saying. We therefore congratu late the library and all concerned upon th struggle of the past week and its results. THE GENEVA AWARD BALANCE. During General Grant's administration th United States secured through a course of overbearing diplomacy an award of $15,500, 000 in satisfaction of certain defined classes of claims for the depredations of certain confederuisers fitted out in England. This sum was awarded by a tribunal that held its meetings in the Swiss city of Geneva. After we got the money we went to work to disburse it in accordance with the terms unde which it was granted. After the most liberal allowances to all merchants who had suffered damages from cruisers fitted out in England we had an unexpended balance of over nine millions for which we could find no claim ants under the terms of the award. But still there are claimants and very shrewd and im portunate ones they are, tod. These fellows have at last induced the house to pass a bill for the distribution of the $9,553,800 still remaining on hand of the award. The hous bill as it was passed directs the re-establishment of the court of commissioners of Alabama claims. The court is directed by the to give judgment for claims portant work before the assembly will be the duly proved for the payment of premiums for war risks, and also for damages done by cruisers, regardless of the place where they fitted out. If this bill becomes a law, we will be guilty of disbursing British money to claimants whose claims were discussed at, and expressly rejected by, the Geneva conference. England is not, of course, responsible for damages inflicted by cruisers which were not fitted out in her ports, and the war premiums were withdrawn by Mr. Bancroft Davis, our agent at Geneva. Mr. Fish, the then secretary of state, formerly declared that they had only been presented to have them, by adjudication. removed as a cause of contention between the two nations. These claims were thus entirely excluded from consideration. How we can honorably pay this money to claimants who were outside of the award it is very difficult to see. The balance of the fund should either remain in the treasury or be refunded to England. The latter course should at some time be adopted. Mr. Hammond presented the report of the minority of the judiciary committee on this subject, together with a substitute for the majority bill. The minority want all claims for the balance of the money referred to the court of claims with the right to appeal to the upreme court. Their bill allows everybody to present their claims, and if none are entitled to the fund it leaves the money where it is now, in the treasury. Mr. Hammond sup ported the views of the minority of the com mittee in a speech of considerable length and great clearness and force. His position on the subject is certainly impregnable, and if the house had acted free of the influences of a powerful lobby it would have adopted the bill that he advocated. As it was, the majority bill was passed by a vote of 133 to 67. Messrs. Buchanan, Clements, Cook, Hamnond Speer and Turner voted against it. Messrs. Black, Blount and Stephens were paired. The bill now goes to the senate where it should either be shelved, or amend ed in accordance with the dictates of justice and common honesty.

HOW THE MINORITY SECTION IS BLED Senator Vance's speech on the tariff comnission bill is in part devoted to showing how the majority section is draining through une qual and unjust legislation the resources of the minority section. He first shows that the public domain which was the common property of the people of the United States, has been in great part given away to northern states. He then show where the expenditures of money and is sues of beings have gone. The whole makes a grand total of money and total of the public lands of 246,449,326 acres expended for the benefit of the northern states, and 28,319,797 acres expended for the benefit of the southern states. This does not take into account at all the fishing bounties and other drawbacks on taxation of which the north received the exclusive benefit. When to all this is added the fact that more than seven-tenths of the emoluments of public office have for twenty years past been enjoyed by the northern people; that fifty millions in ensions are annually paid there, together: with almost the whole of the interest of the public debt, there can be little wonder, he added, that the northern section of the union keeps ahead of the southern.

But he shows that this grabbing of public plunder does not equal in injustice the tarif egislation that insiduously bleeds one section for the benefit of the other. Those who de clare that they are for protection for protec tion's sake, simply say they are in favor of levying money, not for the support of the government, but tor the benefit of a particular class of men at the expense of another. This is not taxation; it is robbery; and it is just this that falls most heavily upon the agricultural people of the south. How is it with the cotton-grower? asks Mr. Vance. In the first place he pays all the taxes, state and na that that they intended to do so as soon as tional, that all other citizens are required to pay. When he starts out in the spring to were thoroughly understood. The new ad- pitch his crop, on his plow he pays 50 per cent ad valorem; on his trace-chains to pull the plow, 21/2 cents per pound; on his wagon, harrow and other irons, 50 per cent; on his jack knife, 50 per cent; on the square by which he measures his work,6 cents per pound and 30 per cent ad valorem; on his files and rasps, 10 cents per pound and 30 per cent; on his sum 814 cents and 30 per cent for his ar ities devolving upon them and that 40 per cent; for the iron hoops which inclose his bale of cotton when made, 11/4 cents per his wrought nails, 21/2 cents per pound; his cut nails, 1% cents per pound; his horse shoe nails, 5 cents per pound; his tacks and sprigs 21/2 cents per thousand; for wood screws, from 8 to 11 cents per pound; for cast-iron hinges > foot. All this, averaging nearly 100 per cent he pays to the Pennsylvania iron and steel manufacturers, not to the government. On the bagging for his cotton-bales, he pays : cents per yard; on his cotton shirt, 5 cents per yard and 10 per cent; on his wife's calic dress, 51/2 cents per yard and 20 per cent; on her spool thread, 1/4 cent each and 30 per cent on the common stone-ware of his table, 25 per cent: on his school-boy's slate-pencil, 40 per cent; on his glass tumblers, 40 per cent; or his sugar and molasses, 49 per cent; on his coarse blankets, about 95 per cent; on hi wool hat and flannel shirt, about the same on hi wife's shawl, 50 cents per pound and 3 per cent, (over 100 per cent;) on his borax, 10 cents per pound; his clock, 35 per cent; his wife's camphor, 5 cents per pound; her gloves, 50 per cent; hair-pins, 50 per cent; on his glue, 20 per cent.; his grindstone, 1 cent per pound; powder, 6 cents per pound and 20 per cent; suspenders, 33 per cent; rubber boots for bad weather, 3 per cent; his leather 25 per cent; his kero ene oil, 40 cents per gallon. In sickness hi morphia is taxed $1 per ounce; castor oil, per gallon, and his opium $1 per pound. Even on his fruit trees and his gar den and his agricultural seeds he is taxed 20 per cent ad valorem. Nearly all this goes into the pockets of the manufacturers, who claim that the planter's prosperity is increase by this searching taxation. Nothing is free to him. Nothing escapes, said Mr. Vance this all pervading, inevitable protective tariff

The Indian Cotton Crop.

New Haven Palladium,
There was an extraordinary cotton crop in westrn India last year, which has relieved the appreem India last year, which has reneved the appre-bensions of English spinners, who were fearing a heavy advance in prices next summer, in conse-quence of the deficiency of the American supply, it is now predicted that before the last of October England will receive at least half a million bales from India in excess of previous shipments from that market. A recent trade circular, after giving details, says: This large surplus has undoubtedly staved off an extreme scarcity in the autumn. one time it seemed doubtful whether the twould go largely upon Surats in place of Americant that doubt is now at an end; spinners are bug and using Surats very freely; the excellence the crop and the poor style and high price of the crop and the poor style and high price of the crop and the poor style and high price of the crop and the poor style and high price of the crop and the poor style and high price of the crop and the poor style and high price of the crop and the poor style and high price of the crop and the poor style and high price of the crop and american combine to drive them in that there and it is clear that American cotton will be reled from much of the demand that would other have come upon it. Mahone's Collapse

The coalition in Virginia which Mahone invent nd managed as a political speculation may be said to have collapsed. The elements of which the coal ion have consistent. The clements of which had countries to adher together long after the spoils had been distributed Mahone and Riddleberger have succeeded in get ing seats in the senate, some of their principal dieutenants have been paid off with federal and the propage and Campera is governor. The ting scats in the senate, some of their principal lieutenants have been paid off with federal and state patronage, and Cameron is governor. The honest rank and file who were inveigled into the business became disgusted long ago, and a sufficient number of them revolted in the state senate to prevent the consummation of a scheme to gerrymander the state into congressional districts for the benefit of certain readjuster politicians.

Little doubt is now entertained that the people of Virginia will, repudiate the repudiator and his crew at the fall election. But they will not be able to repair the mischief he has done to the credit of the state, nor to restore the good feeling that previously existed between parties and races.

One of the greatest injuries inflicted by the Mahone managers is the degradation of the honored court of appeals of the state. This injury cannot be repaired for twelve years to come unless the constitution is altered. One of the old judges temporarily holds over. Of the four elected by Mahone, only one is fit for the place. Two are notoriously disqualified by intemperate habits, and the fourth is wholly incompetent.

In supporting the coalition the president has followed the example of the republicans of the senate. But General Arthur might have saved his administration from some of the discredit that attaches to the whole Mahone business.

THE DEMORALIZED COALITION Jack Brown Rises up and Makes Some Striking as

To the Editor of the Washington Post: The presi dent has been unwise in entrusting the federal par onage of Georgia to a few men whose characters and methods are repugnant to a large majority the people of that state, and more especially to the sore-headed democrats, commonly known as inde endents or liberals. This cabal is composed of ames Longstreet, James Atkins, Charles Arnold and H. P. Farrow (all republicans), whose charac ters are so obnoxious that republicans will refus even to send them, or either one of them, to a national convention. As Louisiana politicians say, the first nemed is devoid of all politi cal sense, besides worshipping in a that is detested by almost his entire constituency Against the second member of the cabal are charge in the department of justice, which, if true, wil completely deprive him of political influence in his state or elsewhere. At the doors of the third named party many political sins are found—besides he is known in Georgia as Petticoat Arnold, having ac quired this soubriquet from the allegation that his mother kept him in woman's clothes during the war to save him from conscription. The fourth commonly known as Potash Farrow, is notoriously corrupt, as will appear by referring to General Raum. All of these men hold important offices in Georgia, except the second named, who is expecting daily from the president a United States judgeship. This is a slight history of the cabal whos members are controlling Georgia offices and from whom the authorities at Washington (as a consideration) have received pledges to Mahonize the state Asan evidence of their progress I submit the fol owing abstract from a letter written by a distinguished Georgia lawyer:

My DEAR NIR: I am against the so-called Georgia "syndicate," and so are a large majority of the republicans of this state. There is no mistake about this, as time will demonstrate, but while we are against them for their arbitrary and unparalleled methods, we are not against the administration of President Arthur The true situation, and particularly the standing of some of the men composing this cabal called the "syndicate," has been misrepresented to the president and others in Washington. These men do not represent the republican party here, and cannot deliver it. The movement headed by them is doomed to speedy and disstrous fallure, when in other hands some good might have been accomplished. The indications now are that the June mass meeting of the indications now are that the uished Georgia lawyer: been accomplished. The indications now are that the June mass meeting of the independents will mis carry and that the republicans will organize and stand by their own colors, as in my judgment they should. It is honorable and manly that we should assert and maintain our principles as republicans and in the end it ensures for us more respect among ourselves as well as from our political ad-versaries. I do not believe in compromising prin-ciple, and that is virtually what we are required to among ourselves as well as from our political adversaries. I do not believe in compromising principle, and that is virtually what we are required to do. My observation has been that in such movements republicans are very convenient for duty—to vote—but are never allowed to 40 on "dress pade." I am opposed to such methods. D. rade." I am opposed to such methods. D. Scores of such letters are received by me weekly, conveying the same information and ideas. The president has made a mistake. JACK BROWN. May 14, 1882.

SOUTHERN FARMING.

Experiences of Southern Planters Since the War Georgin Farming Past and Present. From the Hartford Courant.

AMERICUS, Ga., April 15.-I have met a large umber of planters, cotton factors, bankers, mer chants, and others engaged in business through niddle and southwest Georgia, and learn from them the past history of southern farming, its pre ent improved condition, and what is expected in the immediate future. My own inspection of number of farms affords convincing proof that the southern farmer is learning that wit abor a small quantity of land, well cultivated, will produce a more profitable crop than the large acreage worked with slave labor was ever capable of age worked with slave labor was ever capable of doing.

At the close of the war the south was stripped of everything but its land, and owed a large individual indebtedness incurred upon credit given to the property value of the negro, this valuation in 6 corgia alone amounting to $30,000,000, more than the whole amount of her present taxable property.

The high price of cotton induced all the planters to cultivate as much of this crop as they could, and as the new slatus of the negro had put the management of his labor out of the planters' power, they almost invariably rented out their plantations to the freedmen, to get, if possible, as large a revenue as in the days before the war, and with no more personal labor. Many planters went to the cities to live, leaving the entire management of their plantations to the freedmen, and as long as the cotton rent was paid, cared little for the methods by which they were farmed. The negroes worked immense tracts of land, cratching over the soil with the smallest kind of plough, using lit the or no fertilizer, nor resting the land, following in the easiest way such methods of farming as they had learned in the days before the war, and in this way soon exhausted the surface of the land and were unable to raise enough crop either to pay rent or get a living for themselves. The owners of the

had learned in the days before the war, and in this way soon exhausted the surface of the land and were unable to raise enough crop either to pay rent or get a living for themselves. The owners of the plantations soon found their revenues cut off and their lands so worn out as to be unproductive, and their lands so worn out as to be unproductive, and the country so full of similar plantations as to make their saie at any price impossible. They then commenced returning to their homes to work the plantations themselves, and if possible to get them back to something of their former productive power. It is generally admitted that when the owners of the plantations realized that they must work themselves to lose their lands, a brighter and better future opened to the south, and the commencement of her properity dates from that time. Many of the plantations fell into the hands of younger men, either by inheritance or purchase, or more often by renting, and they were far better able to manage the freedmen in the then disorganized and disorganizing state of labor than the old slave owners.

Nevertheless the country was without money and cotton was the only crop on which it could be raised. No factor or bank would loan on anything but cotton or nules, with a promise to have the handling of the owner's cotton, and toget an advance of provisions, mules, or farming lools, or fertilizers, the planter must pledge his cotton to be delivered at the warchouse in the fail. The loan, of whatever a mount, must be paid in full within the current year, so that new advances might be obtained the following season, consequently the farmer planted every acre of cotton he could care for, and as little corn and small grain as possible to feed through the fall, and raise little or no meat, trusting to his next, spring's advances to enable him to buy enough timen to carry his a hough the season, when through the mall, and raise inthe or no meat, trushing to his text spring's advances to enable him to buy enough then to carry him through the season. When lands became exhausted instead of plowing deeper land, we alwayed and this enough then to carry him through the season. When lands became exhausted instead of plowing deeper or fertilizing, mora land was cleared, and this "revenent" of new land put into cotton the second year. For the past four or five years the more intelligent cars of farmers have seen that by this hind of farming they were impoverishing their fands, and the factors and bankers, with the enormous productions and the merchants with the enormous productions and the merchants with the enormous productions and the factors. The planter reaping all the benefits of their labor. The planter was kept poor by the want of enough capital to run his farm on a cash basis, and his farm was worked at a great and increasing disadvantage. This has

"Do you dance?" "No, I dropped on myself two seasons ago," was he response, in a strong, manly voice. Veronica McGuire looked up at George W. Simpson, an expression of wonder and surprise in her soft, velvety eyes. Very beautiful was this girl, as she stood in the dim, half-light of the conservatory, the pearly flesh and rounded curves of her arm and shoulders seeming more than humanly beautionly fit to kiss the wine-red lips of so wonderfully

"I am sorry you do not dance, Mr. Simpson," said Veronica, after a momentary pause, "because it is really the one thing in which I may truthfully lay claim to being proficient. As you have no doubt discovered before this, I am a wretched hand at onversation, an original idea never seeming to find birth in this empty head of mine."

George looked fondly down upon her bang. "I am afraid you are rather inclined to depreciate your own abilities," he said, throwing just a shade of tenderness into the rich tones of his pure voice. 'You play nicely, and you certainly sing well."

"Only passably, my dear Mr. Simpson," was the laughing reply; "you really must not flatter me too much, because I am vain already. But, by the way have you heard 'Over the Garden Wall' vet "No" was the reply in tones that were tremulouswith emotion. "I never heard the tune, but I havehad occasion to go over the wall once or twice"

"It is a beautiful thing," said Veronica. "There that carries one completely away. Do you not find it so oftentimes?"

"Yes," replied George, "it is pre'ty darn weird to get over a wall on a dark night and dive down into an alley that you don't know anything about."

"You are just too funny!" exclaimed the girl, looking at him steadily. As she did so his eyes met hers, and the rich color flooded her cheeks, making them more radiantly beautiful than ever. Turning quickly, she stood with averted face and downcast; eyes, and for a moment no word was spoken. Finally George stepped to Veronica's side and took the little hand that was toying with a rose into his broad palm. She did not start, or seek to withdraw it. Iraw it.

Whereupon Professor Pike drew a pistol and fired, the shot taking effect in Paine's thigh. The wound is not serious, but there is a great deal of excitement, as bad feeling between the faculty and students is of long standing. No arrests.

Declared Unconstitutional.

St. Louis, May 16.—A Post Dispatch special from Jefferson City says: The supreme court has declared the present notary law unconstitutional. The last legislature, in the spring of 1881, passed a bill limiting the number of notaries in St. Louis to one hundred and legislating those who held office. out. Under the decision the notarial acts and deeds of the past eighteen months become involved in doubt as to legality. The full effect of the decision is not yet understood. Declared Unconstitutional.

Chinese in Quarantine for Small-Pox. San Francisco, May 16.—The steamer Altonomer from China, with several hundred Chinese on board, is lying at quarantine, having small pox on board. Two barges conveying sick Chinamen were-being towed from the steamer to the pest house, when one barge capsized and its passengers, variously stated from 6 to 36, were drowned. It is doubtful if the avact number ever will be known.

Disclaiming Responsibility. MoBil. Ala., May 16.—In reference to a press-telegram of to-day the People's savings bank of Mobile says that Green was the agent of Bliss, Fabayan & Co., for purchasing of cotton. In the regular course of business bills of exchange of Green & Bliss, Faybayan & Co. were negotiated through the People's Savings bank with bills of lading attached, signed by Green, agent for white line. The bank disclaims all liability.

Found Drowned.

CHICAGO, May 16.—On Sunday morning John Cretzelo, George Onswald, George Knell and Otto Gibson left the city for Wolf lake, near Sheffield, Indiana, to fish: Their boats have been found all capsized. Cretzelo's body was found entangled in his trolling line. The others have not been found. The same gale that caused the disaster at Pullman undoubtedly caused the death of these men.

More than twice as many votes as were ever polled before were put in and the library street was filled from the opening of the polls until their close, with anxious workers for the contending tickets. The fact that the ladies were to vote, for the first time, added an additional interest and some curiosity was manifested to see how female suffrage would work. It proved to be a most successful experiment, as scores of the lady members came to the polls and voted. Whenever they appeared in the hallway "place aux dames" was the cry, and the way to the polls was opened for them. They came to the library with their minds made up as to who they were to vote for, placed the tickets quietly in the hands of the teller and retired. It was noticeable that few of them voted the straight ticket, the most of their scratching names here and there with discrimination.

When the 1,000th vote was cast, which occurred at twenty-six minutes past 7, the whole building rang with three hearty cheers, and the utmost good feeling reigned, both sides being willing to encounter defeat after having achieved such a result for the library. While there were few incidents beyond the usual chafing attendant upon such occasions. There were a great many bets made in a small way that added to the zest of the election. It was discovered shortly after the polls opened that the old ticket had the go, and that its election was sently with assential. The company to carry on the business.

I have suffered from Scrofula I7 years. The disease being mostly confined to my less and awkles, my shin bones were covered with large Ulcers and one mass of rotten if sh, and the odor almost unbearable. All remedies and treatments failed. At last I began taking 8 8 8, continuing for about four months under the supervision of a physician. Previously to taking 8 8 8 I at times could be accept walk about. Now I can walk all day, and a supervision of the control of the supervision of the control of

Some thirty years ago there lived in Monigomery, Ala., a young man who was terribly afflicted with Scrofula. After being treated for a long time by medical profession of this town, with no beneficial results, he commenced taking SSS. After persitently taking it for two months he was cured. Being acquainted, and in constant intercourse with him for twenty years thereafter. I can testify that the disease never made its return.

SKIN DISEASES

IN ANY STAGE. RICHMOND, VA., February 26, 1831.

About four or five weeks ago I was afflicted with a very aggravated type of Blood Disease. I commenced using S. S., and after taking the first bottle filt so much relieved that I bought five more, and am glad to say after using four of them I amentirely cured, previously having been under medical advice for several months. C. G. RATCLIFF.

S. S. S. Cured Scalp Fores, Sores in Nostrils and Ears, after everything known to the medical fraternity hall failed. Three months have passed since I quit taking S.S. S.; there is no symptom of the disease remaining: I am permanently cured. Stands unrivaled for Blood Diseases; is a blessing to those who take it; send me the address of doubtful ones. John S. Taggart, Salamancia, N. Y.

Dr. N. L. Gallowsy, Monroe, Ga., says: S. S. S. stands without a peer, the profession will have to acknowledge it a specific for blood diseases.

Have seen S. S. S. stop the hair from falling out a short time, wonderful effects in all Skin or Blood iseases. W. H. Patterson, Druggist, Dallas, Texas, EASLEYS, S. C., April 29, 1886.

I have had remarkable success with S. S. S.; have cured several cases permanently in a very short time. One cess which I am now treating was given up to die, and after using three bottles is so far recovered that I think one more bottle will cere her. The most remarkable case of all was a lady with medulary cancer of the womb, for whom I had no hope whatever. After using one bottle, I am satisfied she will soon be cured.

J. WYLLIE QUILLIAN, M. D.

Has given better satisfaction than any remedy for Blood Diseases we have ever handled. Schiller & Stevens, Druggists, Washington, D. C.

Many physicians have indorsed S. S. S. as a spe-fic for Blood Diseases; as one of the most popular emedies we keep. S. Mansfield & Co., Memphis. Improved after taking the first bottle of S. S. S.; in two weeks was able to come home, finding the waters no benefit. J. W. Reid, Newport, Ark.

ATLANTA, March 15, 1883, ATLANTA, March 15, 1883.

I feel it a duty I owe suffering humanity to add my testimony to the merits of S S.S.

After suffering from the worst blood diseases for more than two years, being treated by several eminent physicians, with no perceptible change for the better, coofined to my room and bed the greater part of the time, my body covered with copper colored sores from the size of a pea to that of a silver half dollar. I was well night in despair. Finally I commenced taking S.S.S. In a short time I began to improve in fisch, and all the sores houled and I feel and know that I was well, and to S.S.S must the credit be given of my entire restoration to health. I have not taken a dose for more than six months, and am as free from sores or bemish as any one.

THE COTTON MARKET

CONSTITUTION OFFICE, Atlanta, May 16, 1882. New York—The condition of the market is un changed. A weak tone still prevails, and the mouths are still moving downward. The present unusual cold spell has had no direct influence on the market, but the young crop will be materially damaged should such weather be of long duration At the close to-day the market was steady for futures at prices ranging from 5@8 points below yesterday's closing figures. The spot market, while not so firm as yesterday, has sustained no loss: middling

22,950 bales last year; exports 11,723 bales; last year 44,939 bales; stock 531,324 bales; last year 537,377

Closed steady; sales 122.000 bales.

Liverpool - Futures closed flat. Spots - 71-lands 6%d; Orleans 6 13-16d; sales 12,000 bales. of which 7,800 bales were American; receipts 11,100; American 2,900.

The local cotton market is steady at former prices Fears of frost are being apprehended, but thus far no injury has been sustained by the crop. At the close to-day the following prices were quotable: Good middling 11%; middling 11%; low middling 11%; strict good ordinary 10%; good ordinary 10%; ordinary 81/2e; stains 8@91/2e; tinges 11c.

NEW YORK, May 16-The Post's cotton market report says: "Future deliveries, at the first call, sold at yesterday's closing quotations, but afterward declined—May 3-100, June 6-100, July 7-100, August 10:100, September 7:100, October 5:100, November and and December 2@3:100. The longs, tired of holding, are selling out; prices cannot always advance, and there is no standing still for any length of time. The natural result is a decline. At the third call May sold at 12.23@12.23, June 12.27, July 12.39, August 12.52, September 12.15@12.16, November 11.40, December 11.41."

THE PRESBYTERIANS.

THE MEETING OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY TO-MORROW.

The Work to be Brought Before The As-sembly-Publication Matters, Etc.

To-morrow the general assembly of the Presbyterian church will convene in this city. At 11 o'clock a. m. the opening sermon will be preached in the First Presbyterian church by the Rev. R. P. Farris, of St. Louis, who is the present moderator of the assembly. The on promises to be one of great interest, and many matters of vital importance to the church are to be disposed of. There will be about one hundred and fifty delegates in attendance, and in addition to these there will be many visitors to the city, who will be intluced to come in order to be present during the session. In the assembly there are sixtyseven presbyteries composing twelve synods, and from each of these presbyteries there will come two delegates-one a minister and the other a ruling elder.

THE DELEGATES. Advices up to day indicate that every pres-bytery will be fully represented by either the chosen delegates or the alternates, a correct list of whom is as follows:

SYNOD OF VIRGINIA.

In addition to the above Indian presbytery in the synod of Arkansas, Mecklenberg pres-bytery in the synod of North Carolina, Abingdon, Greenbrier, Roanoke and Sao Paulo presbyteries, in the synod of Virginia are entitled to delegates, and will doubtless be represented.

In the assembly are educational, publication, home and foreign mission departments, which will also bring their managers, thus increasing the membership to one hundred and creasing the membership to one hundred and sixty-five or seventy.

The work to be considered during the session is of a general and miscellaneous character. Some of it is work begun at the last session, with such new business as has been prepared. Among the subjects considered at the last session, and which will be taken up during this one are, the adoption of the new directory for worship; the consideration of Dr. Girardeau's paper discussing the subject of "the Diaconate"; the settlement of the question as to "the number of ministers and elders who shall be required to constitute a commission of presbytery." The question of sending delegates to the Northern Presbyterian church will be considered.

The Athens Presbytery asks that a small hymn-book with tunes be prepared.

MORE MINISTERS WANTED.

The necessity for more ministers will be brought to the attention of the assembly by overtures from the synod of south Georgia and Florida, asking that the committee of overtures from the synod of south Georgia and Florida, asking that the committee of missions set two or three evangelists to work in that synod. In this connection may be noted the overture from the presbytery of Athens, suggesting an amendment to the constitution to admit of the ordination of men to the ministy who have a good English education and an extensive acquaintance with the English Scriptures and the doctrinal standards of our church. Transylvania presbytery overtures the assembly for the appointment of a committee to consider the whole question involving the recognition of Campbellite bap ism, and report to the following assembly. The revised version of the scriptures will come before the assembly in two forms. There will be the report of the committee appointed by the last assembly, of which Rev. Dr. Armstrong is chairman, to examine the revised version and report thereon—also the overture from the presbytery of Ebenezer, asking action to prevent the official use of multiplied versions of the word of God. The status of colored ministers and elders in our church courts will be brought up on appeal from the synod of Memphis, in the Park case.

Yesterday the governor issued the following proclamation:

"ATLANTA, GA., May 16th, 1882.—The act of October 3d, 1879, requires all insurance companies doing business in this state to make the governor semi-annual reports on the 1st of January and July, and publish the same under heavy penalty for failure. Some of the companies have not made their last reports, probably under a misconception that they are only required to report to the comptrollergeneral. Such delinquent companies are notified to make their reports in conformity to law."

What is it?

Dr. Cary Cox has a gold mine in Cherekee county. The work had evidently been done hewn into the shape and size of the human head. The work had evidently been done with good tools, and while not entirely finished, showed that it was a skilled artist who handled the chisel. The heads were found under six feet of clay, which to all appearances had never been disturbed, and lay directly upon a bed of slate. Near the mine is a bed of marble such as the heads are hewa from. The question is, who made the heads, and how did they get under six feet of clay? and how did they get under six feet of clay? They are now in the hands of Mr. Wm. M.
